UNABLE TO HIT THE SLOW CURVES OF "THE SCISSORS"-SCORE AND RECORDS.

GAMES YESTERDAY. Brooklyn 8, New-York 6. Philadelphia 5, Baltimore 0, Chicago 8, Cleveland 1. Pittsburg 10, Cincinna 7.

The first game of baseball between the New-York and Brooklyn teams, to which the local enthusiasts have been looking forward so anxiously, has been played, and the Brooklyn men are the victors. The game was paired at Eastern Park, Brooklyn, yesterday, in regular March weather. It was too cold for baseball or comfort, yet the merry turnstiles clicked off 3,180 enthusiasts, who witnessed the game.

New-York based her hopes upon Rusie, and the elongated Foutz, sometimes called "Scissors," did the pitching for the Brooklyn team. Foutz utilized slow curves, while Rusie had terrific speed. He pitched the ball all over the field, however, and his wildness, coupled with the poor eyesight and lumbering movements of Eassett and O'Rourke, lost New-York the game. Clever running catches were made by Burns and Richardson, while the general work of Ward, Corcoran and Boyle was superb. The result does not convince the friends of the Giants that Brooklyn has the better team.

The home players went first to the but, and, although Ward got to first on called balls, be got no further The Giants were more fortunate, and, scoring two runs, took the lead, to the intense delight of their friends, who had followed them all the way from Harlem. Foutz was erratic and sent Gore to first on called balls Fuller was going to sacrifice, but changed his mind and hit safely to centre-field. Ewing hit to the pitcher, but Foutz threw wild to third and the bases were full and the friends of the Bridegrooms were threatened with heart disease. Lyons went to first on called balls, fercing home Gore. The best O'Rourke could do was to ferce out Lyons and then get out himself.

although Fuller scored on the play.

In the second inning the home players got a run and the followers of the Bridegrooms felt better. Burns led off with a three-base hit between left and centre and scored on a sacrifice by Corcoran. One more run went to Brooklyn's list in the third inning and the score was a tie. Hart was sent to first on called balls with the usual fatal result. Ward bunted and beat the ball to first and he was loadly applauded.

Joyce then sacrificed each a base and on Brouthers's long fly to centre-field, of which Richardson made a clever catch, Hart scored.

The Giants got a run in the fourth inning and again had the lead. Lyons went to first on a famble by Corcoran and O'Rourke sacrificed him to second. He secret on Richardson's hit to left-field.

The Glants' lead was short-lived, however, for Rusie went to pieces in the next inning, and Ward and his men batted in four runs and took a commanding lead. Hart struck out, but Ward made a hit. Ward went second on a passed ball and Joyce was sent to first on called balls. Brouthers hit to right field and Ward Brouthers then walked down to second and sepred with Joyce on Burns's hit past short. Hits by O'Brien and Corcoran scored Burns. The friends of the Bridegrooms fairly danced in their joy.

Rusic was again erratic in the last inning, and two Rusic was again erratte in the last inning, and two more runs went to Brooklyn's list, and as it afterward turned out, the two runs that won the game. Ward hit safely and stole second. Then, with two men out, Rusic sent Burns and then o'Brien to first on called balls, filling the bases. After such an exhibition it was natural that Corecran, one of the poorest batsmen in the team, should hit safely to right held, sending home Ward and Barns.

But the excitement was not yet over, for the New-York players rained in their last tarn at the bat, and it looked for an instant as if they would bat out a victory after all. Boyle was sent to first on called balls, and Russle's fly to left field was captured by O'Brien. Gore hit to second, and as Ward fambled the ball it wo men were on bases. Finier went to first on called balls, and the bases were full. Ewing then drove the ball safely to right field, and Boyle and Gore scored. Lyons also hit to right field, and Fuller scored. O'Rourke and Richgridson, as usual; were easy victims, and the game was over. Appended is the Score:

EXCISE BOARD BRILLIANCY.

IT IS SO DAZZLING THAT THE COMMISSIONERS ARE BLINDED BY IT.

Superintendent Byrnes sent a letter to the Excise Board several days ago, saying that there had been trouble in the Equor-store of Michael McGee, at No. 870 Eleventh-ave., at a time when it was not law ful to sell liquor there. Yesterday he received from the Excise Board a copy of a resolution "that a com-munication be sent to the Police Department, calling that all complaints made to the Excise Board of violation of the law are required to be verified, as pleadings are required to be verified under the code and that the complaints shall allege that some provision of the Excise law has been violated."

Mr. Byrnes said later to a Tribune reporter: "Som time ago the Excise Board sent a request for information regarding violations of the Excise law, such as th one in Eleventh-ave., and we have been sending the information regularly. I hardly knew what to make of the communication which was sent to me to-day, but I looked up the law and gave orders to have the complaints verified as requested. We will give the information to the Excise Commissioners either boiled or fried as they desire."

To some of the officials at the Central Office the communication from the Excise Board was construe. as a broad hint that the Board did not wish to revoke the Beanses of liquor-dealers who violated the law. At the office of the Excise Board, Mr. Bishop, the secre-tary, put the case this way: "A liquor-dealer has a license to sell at certain hours only. At other times-he really has no license. Now if his place is open at prohibited hours he cannot be said to violate the terms of his license, because he has no license. See!"

SAMPLE CASE OF EXCISE PERSECUTION

THE EXPERIENCE OF JOHN SUTHERLAND, THE RESTAURANT-KEEPER, WITH TAM-MANY OFFICIALS.

The manuer in which the Excise Roard, aided by the police, make it uncomfortable for those who do not agree with them, politically or otherwise, has land, the well-known restaurant keeper of No. 64 Liberty-st. Mr. Sutherland has done business in Liberty-st. for more than thirty years. For several years be has been annoyed by inspectors of the Excise Department calling on him about the time his license expired, who would ask him many Irrelavant and, as Mr. Sutherland thought, impertinent questions. They would want to know how old he was, where he was born, etc. Mr. sutherland complained of these questioners and their visits were stopped. Then last year Mr. Sutherland had occasion to express the opinion that it was much easier for those to secure a license who paid a "fee" to the officials than for those who were unwilling to do this. All these things apparently were treasured up by the Excise Department people. On May 8 Mr.

proved by the Board of Excise and the certificate will be issued as soon as the forms made necessary by the new Excise law are prepared and executed. You should call without delay at the office of the Board and present this card to the ciert. "Not less than six times have I or my cashler," said Mr. Sutherland yesterday, "colled at the office of the Excise Board and tried to get that license. of the Excess Board and tried to get that license. I went up accompanied by my bondsmen and with a check in my pocket ready to pay, but every time I was put off with one excuse and another. But I was told that the postal eard from Mr. Bishop was all I needed to continue to do business unmolested after my license expired and before I got the new Reense. On Wedne-day last, however, a police de-tective came here and told me that I was breaking him the postal card and he said it was 'no good.' Then he went away, and at 6:10 o'clock another Then he want away, and at 6-10 o-clock another detective came in, called for a glass of beer, drank it and then arrested my barkeeper. I understand that the police were informed from the Excise Board's rooms that I was doing business without a license. Well, I was put to as much trouble as possible in procuring $100 bail for my barkeeper. They refused to accept me as surety and I had to get a friend. The next day my man was before Judge Duffy in the Tombs. There he had to furnish new bonds for $100 and was bound over to another court. nonus for $100 and was bound over to another court. Now, my place is always closed on Sunday, and after trying in vain to get my fleense, through no fault of my own, and having been told that the postal card was sufficient to refleve me, you can see what a petty prosecution it all was. As an instance of how differently I was treated from the run of of now differently I was treated from the run of Tammany saloon-keepers, I will quote what Judge Duffy sald about another case brought before him. I quote this from a morning newspaper; "Discharged, said Judge Duffy yesterday in the Tombs to Saloon-keeper Heary Wellbrook, of No. 77 Church-st. 'I think your artest was an ontroge.

77 Churchest. I think your arrest was an ontroge. What do the Excise Commissioners mean, anyway! When application is made for a renewal of dicense the saloonkeeper is told to wait until the clerks can attend to it at their own sweet will, and that in the meantime he can sell under the old license and would not be interfered with. The man is scarcely out of the building when a notice is prepared for the captain of police in which the place is located, notifying him of the absence of a license. Then an arrest is made. I'm getting disgusted with this sort of bushless."

Mr. Sutherland's long-delayed license was received yesterday.

PRESS COMMENTS WERE EXPENSIVE.

Before he started his crusade against the disorderly houses, the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst was a subscriber to a certain newspaper-clipping concern which furnished him with all personal notices and criticisms on his sermons which appeared in the daily papers. The president of the Society for the Prevention of Crime soon discovered, however, that the increased notoriety which he obtained rendered his desire for clippings rather expensive, and after paying 5 cents apiece for about 600 notices he discontinued his subscription, saving that he had not spare time to read all that was being printed about him.

AN APPEAL FOR ST. JOHN'S GUILD.

St. John's Guild has issued its twenty-sixth annual a floating hospital, which receives sick children from the visiting physicians in New-York. It has cared for as many as 1,400 a day. It also has a scaside hos-pital at New-Dorp, S. I., and last summer provided for 384 mothers and 683 children there. A city hospital has recently been organized to assist in the work. W. L. CROSSING THE CONTINENT WITH THE PRES EYTERIAN HOST,

For many years the Presbyterian General Assembly has been planning to hold a meeting on the Pacific Coast; for two or three years the treasurer has been adding his spare pennics to the mileage fund, and for an entire year Dr. W. H. Roberts, the stated clerk, when not reading criticisms upon his work at Detroit last year, has been actively at work providing for the pleasure of his friends-critics and others-securing reduced rates, arranging special trains and anticipating every possible want of those who should be fortunate enough to take the trip. Other pens will tell of the delights of the passengers on the "Shearer parks," so-called, with its special train from New-York, Chicago and other points over the Union Facille to Portland, the meeting place of the Assembly, one of the attractive Lake City, with opportunities for seeing the Mormon in all his glory and shame.

The train with which this article deals is called by some the "Roberts train," to distinguish it from the "Shearer train." Dr. Roberts and his family, Dr. Moore, the permanent clerk; Dr. J. McC. Holmes and family, of Albany; Dr. and Mrs. Bartlett, of Washing ton; Dr. and Mrs. McIntosh, of Fhiladelphia; Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Boyd, of the Board of Home Missions, and Dr. Gillesple, secretary of the Foreign Board, New-york; President Wilson, of Lenox College, Iowa; Dr. J. B. Donaldson, Editor of "The North and West," Minneapolis; Dr. Riheldoffer, of Minnesota, the oldest minister in the coming Assembly, and Professor Morrow, of Champaign, Ill., are among the party of 280 row, of Champaign, Ill., are among the party of 250 persons—105 commissioners—who left St. Paul on Friday morning, over the Northern Pacific road, in a special train of twelve cars, nine vestibuled sleepers, two diners and a baggage-car. Two of the sleepingcars had come from New-York, two were added at St. Paul, while the rest were made up at Chicago, where the special train started.

At St. Paul Mr. B. N. Austin, the assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, came on board and will accompany the train to Portland. He has added greatly to the pleasure of the party by giving general items of information, answering special questions, stopping the train at interesting places, etc. The act which has called forth most nthusiasm, perhaps, was Mr. Austin-s effort to secure a dress parade of the military at Fort Keogh, Mont. The heavy rains of the last few days had caused The heavy rains of the commanding officer could not furnish the parade, but he received the travellers with his band and about 100 soldiers. While listening to the music several of the passengers conversed with the boys in blue, and not a few moistened eyes were seen, while tears fell down the faces of some who would have received an order to march to the seat of Friends from their homes which they had not seen in years were burder to meet than a band of "yellow to buy religious literature for the soldiers and two or three passengers offered to send religious weeklies direct to the "Post Library, Fort Keogh, Mont." If any reader feels moved to add his name to that list, Mr. Lee would be glad to correspond with him, Keogh, and the battlefield is shown on the maps not far from the station that bears his name. Some of the pleasure of their stop at the military post because there were no Indians at the train to greet us. But at Billings, where Mr. Austin held the train for but on the store steps, radiant in all the splendor of their nativity. In the middle sat Bob Tail, as large their nativity. In the middle sat Bob Tail, as large as Dr. Moody and as stolid as a sphinx. The Kodaks levelled at the group made no impression upon any of the five. One or two of the more venturesome ladies desired to shake hands with Bob Tail, and he stretched out a hand that bod apparently never handled any implement more useful than a pipe of peace; a tomahawk or even a mild war whoop would cause too much exertion for this indifferent company. To all questions they were as mirre-poinsive as the bench on which they rested their Binks, made weary by lack of use.

"Do you smoke " asked a venture-some youth, while his companions held their breath. A faint smile, like the first blush of a June morning, started from the dreamy eyes of Bob Tall. His lips moved not, but his eyes said, "Does a duck swim!" The smile spread over five faces, and soon the entire company, Indians, residents and travellers, were on a broad grin.

"Will you have a clearette!" ventured the smile producer. His friends feared for their safety when they remembered that he was dealing with men who were enegates of civilization, but he knew his Indians, and his companions smiling the thanks they could not frame in words. As the train moved on, no one was seen getting up a collection to send religious literature to the trows.

co-operation of all the people, irrespective of church, thes, and every pulpit in this beautiful city among the Bookles, except the Protestant Episcopal and Roman Catholic, was open to the Prochyterian preachers, and many of the members of these two churches added in the welcome given to the visitors. A function at the hotels or in the homes of the people, fee rides on the electric cars and two routing missionary crylecs came after a fine view of the Broadwater Hotel and natatorium, in front of which the train was switched during the early morning hours.

Spohane Falls, with a ride in carriages as the guests of the Chamber of Commerce, and a laucheon farmished by the ladies; Tacoma, with a ride by steamers on Paget Sound to scattle, and the reception at Portland, proceeded the opening of the Assembly, the Assembly itself following this restful journey from coast to coast—these are visions that allure and which the pastor hopes to see and hear.

TO TAKE PART IN A CURIOUS PRETIVAL. The annual festival of the "Blessing of the Fields," at Eurnham Industrial Farm, at Cuman Four Corners, Columbia County, N. Y., will take place on June 15. between 9:30 a. m. and 3 p. m. About 2,000 invitations are issued and the occasion promises to be of musual interest on account of the dedication of cilpin Hall, a memorial building presented for the uses of the Farm. This festival is rare in this country and the demand for invitations is always great. A full programme has not yet been issued, but many noted people will take part in the exercises.

A SEEMING DISCREPANCY EXPLAINED. Some surprise has been expressed because the number of shares reported cleared by the Stock Exchange Clearing House has been far in excess of the amount of sales reported as bought and sold over the tickers. Manager Carolin said yesterday that nearly all the discrepancy could be explained by the fact that the Clearing House reported loans as well as purchases and sales, and there was no means by which the two kinds of transactions could be sep-arated, even if it were advisable to do so, which was not the case. It is expected that next week the Governing Committee will place about six more stocks under Clearing House rules.

PUNISHED FOR ASSAULTING A MANAGER. Charles De Forrest, the actor, who assaulted Ernest Hutchinson in the Fourteenth Street Theatra on April 14, was arraigned for sentence in General Sessions yesterday. Hutchinson, who was manager of the Lydia Thompson company, refused De Forrest a pass, and was nearly killed with a stick. Recorder Smyth fixed the punishment at nine months' imprisonment in the penientiary.

On Wednesday evening last more than 100 young men met at the Hotel Endicett, Columbus ave, and Eighty-second-st., to form a society which would take in the young men of the Holy Name parish, organize them into a popular club, and secure a building for n clubhouse. The meeting was called to order by Michael Drummond, who introduced as the speakers of the evening the Rev. Messrs. Talbot Smith, acting Editor of "The Puffale Catholic Union and Times"; John Hughes, director of the Spacing Union; and Richard J. Keefs, head of the young men's societies of the New York diocese. The paster of Holy Name After adjournment laucheon was served. This successful beginning of the new society will be grateful news to those interested in the young men. Young men's clubs are increasing in the diocese at an astonishing rate, and new impulse was given to their formation by the success of the Xnvier Club, in charge of the well-known Jesuit, Father Van Rensselaer. They are modelled largely on the plan of the Y. M. C. A. The more conservative clergy have not much faith in them, but are no longer able to uppose a movement which Fope Leo has openly favored.

THE RELIC OF ST. ANN.

Monsignor Marquis departed yesterday for Quebec with the relic which has created so much interest in this city. The crowds which went to view it scarcely diminished in numbers, and included the usual proportion of the sick and helpless, hoping and praying for cure. Among the Roman Catholies there have been divided opinions concerning the relic, as to its genuineness, the documents carried by Monsignor Marquis, guaranteeing the fact, as far as such documents can. But many doubted the wisdom of creating great public excitement in matters of this Rind, and many loudly condemned the connection of money with a sucred object. Admission to the church was charged on the plea of thinning the enormous crowds that filled the building and the street. The plea was honest enough, and something had to be done drive away the merely curious, but there are other methods than admission fees, even though money so obtained must under pain of heavy penalties, Catholics are agreed in praising the kindly temper and sound courtesy of the press and the general public throughout the whole affair. Ridicule and sneers were avoided, and many non-Catholics went to witness a scene which they could understand, but had no sympathy with. The relic goes to the shrine of St. Anne below Quebec in charge of Monsignor efforts to keep French Canadians on their own soil.

In the last forty years he has planted colonies in Canada to the number of half a million persons.

The most enthusiastic and persistent friend of the relic in the city was Bernard O'Reilly.
